

Konstantinos Karypidis

Peak Performance Coach
Motivational Speaker

Our guest speaker has been described as a professional bookworm. He has read and analyzed all major books not only of our century but from ancient philosophers to modern thinkers alike.

His goal is pretty simple and bold: To build a world where executives, instead of trying to predict the future, they are capable of peak performing at will and hence capable to deal optimally with any kind of challenges or opportunities.

He has worked with leading organizations around the world as a peak performance coach teaching executives the skills to achieve peak performance. Skills that have been tested throughout the centuries as you'll discover during his keynote.

Please welcome, Konstantinos Karypidis.